Membership Benefits Overview

About SID-United States

SID-United States (SID-US) is the largest and most active chapter of the Society for International Development (SID), an international network founded in 1957 to serve as a global forum dedicated to sustainable economic, social and political development. SID-US works to bring diverse constituencies together to debate critical ideas, innovations, policies and practices, advancing equitable development through the exchange of knowledge and development innovation through unique programs, events, outreach and networking activities.

The SID-US community brings together NGOs, the private sector, small businesses, universities, multilateral development institutions, government agencies, consulting firms, and individuals interested in international development. We are the global town square for international development.
